To one of my fine
men that I like too much to say.
You know Mel, its been nice knowing you this year. You're a real nice person to have as a friend.
You're only in the school
this year since you moved common since you moved here. If you got a little will let it show and shows it.
boy do you show it. And they do you show it. And to say that hasn't already said or that you really don't know.
I do know.
to see as much of each other as we do now next year, 'cause I will not be seen at 71st again unless an emergency and I doubt that

Love ya always

Mel,
a real sweet guy that I've had the pleasure of knowing for some time.
Always Love,
Noa
Gutierrez

Dr. M. S. R.

Maybe this year isn't enough.
I hope we can be friends next year without being out even other thinks. Well anyway, good luck and happiness in the future.

W. Leonard Adams,
Dina L. Randall and

P.S. Don't ever say I never love anything for you. (I can't cut off your wing and it's it)

To Mel
a real sweet, and nice young man I have had the pleasure
of knowing this year.
Stay sweet and as nice as you are and you will go far.

Carolyn

Good luck
Boyd

to Mel
a sweet and good looking young man that I had the pleasure
of meeting this year.
Lucky young lady for some future. Joye Angela Brown
P.S. hope to see you next year.

Paula
Class of 79

Hi Mel know
I don't know well
I don't that well to have you quite glad to stay but I was glad to see you met you this year. I hope the same sweet person are. Love Paula

Something Old

In the beginning, there were six — McPherson, Glendale, Raymount, Kornbow, Westover, Galatia, and then there was one — Seventy-First. And from the very beginning, we were proud. With a pride only a Seventy-First Falcon, or Redbird, as we were known then, can feel. All five heads held high, the Class of 25 began the tradition and 52 years later, the Class of 77, 661 strong, the largest ever to graduate from Seventy-First, carries it just as proudly on. From a small beginning, the 2300 students of today are each separate individuals carrying about in his or her own way the proud tradition of being a Falcon.

Each one of us at Seventy-First is unique, with our own style and way of being, and yet we're all alike in that very special way: we're all Falcons. We would like to focus on this "average" Seventy-First student who does not exist as any one individual, but rather as a part of all of us.

Above all, a Seventy-First student is proud, proud of Seventy-First and all she stands for, and proud to be a member of her student body. But it is not enough to be a member of a #1 school, he is willing to work to maintain and even further the characteristics of our school. He is dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal, unless one of them happens to be a Falcon. He carries the old spirit through his modern activities, combining the best of the old and the new. When he attends an athletic function, whether participating or supporting, he is optimistic about the outcome. When representing his school, whether an athlete, bus driver, band member, or anything else, he is out there to do his best because through better or worse, he's still a FALCON!!

Something New

A Falcon is happy and optimistic about all he does and goes about his work with a smile on his face, though being human his everyday problems sometimes puts a damper on his spirits. Even those few times that Seventy-First might lose a ballgame on Friday night, Monday morning's smiling faces are a sign for that week's opponent to beware.

He is dedicated to his beliefs and his work reflects this. He puts in long hard hours for the school, another goes home and studies just as hard for himself. He knows where he is going at least in one sense, up. This represents only the upper portion of the student body in your average school, but is instilled in most of us when we first come to Seventy-First, or even before. Yes, even Seventy-First has its failures, but he's not your average Falcon either.

1. The new style of jerseys and overalls became very popular for the varsity football team on game days. 2. Someone always manages to smile, whether it's funny or not!

1. The school building really is a maze, and not just the classes.

Your average Falcon is also your average teenager. He chases (and usually catches) just as many girls as the next guy, or visa versa. He's always in and out of hot water with his parents it seems, and can occasionally be seen letting homework slide if there's a big party going on

A member of a constantly changing generation, his values are not always easy for anybody, much less him, but he'll face its challenges head on, with a smile on his face.

We are sure that when Westover Senior High opens next year, the classes of 78 and 79 will make sure that Seventy-First spirit will be there. When we move on like the countless classes before us, the new classes to come will uphold our proud traditions, and the spirits of Seventy-First will carry on.

2. Studs of the 50's shows what it takes. 3. A beautiful Falcon form graces the halls during 50's Day.

A Tribute To . . .

Each year, the yearbook is written with the idea to capture that year like it really was: its moods, its spirit, and its attitudes. With this in mind, the yearbook is dedicated to one who reflects the true spirit of Seventy-First, past and present: Mrs. Betty Neill Parsons, our choral director.

Seventy-First is a tradition in her family. Mrs. Parsons is carrying on the proud heritage of being a Falcon established by her father, brother, sister, and her husband. She graduated from Seventy-First in 1960. Her musical career was continued at Methodist College, and her energy and enthusiasm for life and music was showered on her community.

She has made many contributions to our school. She put in long hard hours with the Seniors, both as Senior class advisor in '75-'76 and with the Senior Class Production in '75, '76, and '77. Our handbell choir, the first in the state, was established under her suggestion and direction.

For her time and dedication, her vitality, interest, enthusiasm in everything she does, and the radiating smile we needed, we thank her for what she gives to all of us — herself.

Mrs. Parsons

For

all those times you kept on working for us, even when nobody seemed to notice picking up where we left off, and for starting where we never began

For

always being there when we needed you, giving us a helping hand, for caring, and for always putting us first your radiant, everpresent smile, keeping us going, by making us feel new and important making us feel like we can do anything, and then helping us so we can.

For being our friend, Mrs. Parsons, thanks.

A Night To Remember

The crowd was tense and silent. Yellow and white chrysanthemum corsages were pinned onto the new clothes of many students. Tension crackled through the air like electricity.

The band finished playing and the ROTC honor guards marched onto the field. The names of nine girls were called. The girls, accompanied by their escorts walked in front of the crowd and stood around the red-and-white stage. The names of the sophomore, junior, and senior representatives were called. But who would be the next homecoming queen? Hearts stopped and breaths were held as her familiar name was announced. The name was not heard by all, but by seeing the surprise on her face, most knew it was Coleen Crespo. After the crowning and many wild cheers, the Corvettes circled the field, evoking more noise from the crowd.

The homecoming game began. Blizzards of confetti and comets of toilet paper were evidence of the crowd's enthusiasm. This spirit and the excellent effort of the cheerleaders helped our team to a 38-18 victory over Hoke. But the homecoming activities did not stop there.

As part of the Homecoming festivities, the annual contest for the best door decoration was held. Many of the homerooms participated and most of the doors showed a great deal of talent.

The winners of the contest were chosen by a judging committee comprised of faculty members. The door which they chose was from Mrs. Hatcher's homeroom.

Seniors Victorious In Powderpuff

Cold, windy, bleak afternoons spent running, passing, and kicking a pig-skin is usually just one of the mishaps of trying to play in the powder-puff football game. The annual event, sponsored by the Junior Class is usually and most ordinarily a day of fun for those junior and senior girls desiring to play a game of flag football.

Borrowed jerseys and late afternoon announcements stating that practice will be held with no ride and a mother steaming at home; a "coach" who has made the same mistake at least a dozen times — is chewing you out; and your dislocated knee is crying out, "I wanna go home!" is only a part of the story. These, plus lots of practice and goofing off, all contribute to a most devastating girls' football game.

That is not to mention our "Powder-puff queen and her court" or the cute little "cheerleaders." They, themselves, deserve to be put in their own league.

Miss Seventy First 1977

With the grace of fairy princesses, they moved across the stage in a whisper. This was to be one of the most exciting nights in the course of their year at Seventy-First. An excitement like none other known was felt by each person who walked through the doors.

The seventy-five contestants displayed their best in an all-out effort to show grace, charm, and their very own special personality to the judges as they walked out on the stage.

Miss Manon Eppler, an FHA member, greeted and welcomed the excited audience waiting for the pageant to begin. She also introduced the Master of Ceremonies, Mr. Alec Warner.

The judges, former beauty queens and Senator Glenn Jernigen, chose twenty-one semi-finalists. While doing so, Miss Joyce Owens announced Miss Congeniality, Miss Syble Garrett.

1. The queen and her court pose for a last minute shot.

2. Our new queen, proudly crowned, poses with her trophy and roses.

MISS SEVENTY-FIRST

After several difficult selections, Mr. Alex Warner announced the 11 finalists. During intermission, entertainment was provided by the Seventy-First chorus and several other individuals who devoted their time to make the evening more enjoyable.

The time the girls had waited so long for had arrived. Last year's queen, Miss Theresa Parker, gave a special message to the audience and made her final walk as Miss Seventy-First.

Mr. Warner stood with the announcements in his hand. The fourth runner-up was announced as Miss Petra McBride; third runner-up, Miss Joni Parker; second runner-up, Miss Sandy Weiss, first runner-up, Miss Linda Blask. Tension among the girls and the audience increased. Named Miss Seventy-First for 1976 was Miss Lesa Loretto.

The tension snapped and crying parents and girls dove for the stage. The fairytale had ended.

MR. SEVENTY-FIRST '75-'76

Even the fact that there weren't many contestants did not alter the laughs, whistles, and cheers that came with this "something new" at Seventy First. This "something new" was the Mr. Seventy First Pageant. Donned in tuxedos with their escorts, the contestants bravely walked across the stage.

Originally planned for a nightly program, a daytime showing had to be arranged because of technical difficulties and for the fact that the students also wanted to view this "new" kind of show.

Judges from several of the well-known dress and men's shops from Cross Creek Mall selected the 1976 pageant winner as Mr. Keith Alfano. His escort was Joanne Perry. He received a plaque and a gift certificate. First runner-up was James Williamson, escorted by Rosalind Camps. Mr. Congeniality was James Lytle, escorted by Kim Scott.

This "something new" at Seventy First was short lived, for the 1977 Pageant was cancelled for lack of interest.

3. James Lytle stands beaming with his escort Kim Scott, after being named Mr. Congeniality.

THIRD ANNUAL ROTC BALL

The third annual Military Ball was held at the Pope A.F.B. Officers Club. The November ball was very successful. Students danced to music provided by the Tony Richardson Band. Last year's queen, Miss Jackie Potts, crowned Miss Stayce Harris, who was elected by popular vote. The emcee for the ball was Glenn Mobley, Operator Officer. Two hundred people attended the affair.

Have you ever dreamed of visiting an enchanted forest?

A "rose" arbor: dark forests, faraway sounds of a cascading waterfall, and the sweet taste of a gingerbread house were just some of the elements that the "Enchanted Forest" held May 15, the night of the Junior Senior Prom.

Those that visited this "Enchanted Forest" danced to the music of "Times Square" and were served food by those sophomores who were chosen to be waiters and waitresses.

The prom climaxed with the crowning of the king and queen, Sam Hagey and Tracey Black, who were chosen by student votes. Mr. Robert Lewis officially performed the ceremony.

Maurice speaks on evolution to Mrs. Byrd's biology class.

"Maurice is coming," were the three words on the light-colored posters which were hung around the school in late October. The posters gave no other information about the mysterious Maurice, and many people wondered who he was.

Students learned that Maurice was a young UNC-CH and Seventy First graduate, with Smith as his surname. The representative of Campus Crusade for Christ, he lectured at Seventy First for three days.

Maurice spoke primarily about Christianity and how it relates to high school students. He spoke to all students who wanted to listen. Maurice also talked to several biology classes on evolution. Mrs. Kosman invited him to speak to her History and Western Civilization classes.

Maurice was only here from November 2-4, but it was a memorable visit all the same.

HANDBELLS AND CHORUS GIVE CONCERT

The Seventy-First Handbell Choir and Chorus directed by Mrs. Betty Parsons had a night performance in December.

Their struggle for perfection poured through in an effort to relay their best. A truly delightful evening was made possible by devoted teacher and students who strove for perfection.

1. Both the chorus and the audience eagerly wait for the conductor to reach the podium

2. The handbell chorus played as a single instrument, creating a dramatic effect

3. Mrs. Parsons smiles during an especially beautiful portion of the concert

1. The voices of the girl's chorus blend together under the direction of Mrs. Parsons.

2. The chorus director glances at the music while conducting.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

you are a very rare breed few things bother you or . . . get in your way

Except . . .
the major things in life
that crop up everyday

Like

- walking down the hall without a pass and getting stopped going through the lunch line for the duration and not having the correct change

- then having to stand up and eat your lunch

- having a student in class that has trouble remembering their name the apologetic announcements made at strategic points during the day

- adorned in your P.E. garb and the fire alarm sounds and sounds and sounds

- not to mention, the lovely weather durgetting "greeted" with someone's guitar

- using your last seconds to forge for a notebook, then getting to class and realizing that you had forged in vain having to crawl over or duck under — picking one day out of 180 to wear a dress and being forced to attend a 2 hour bomb scare during gale winds

STUDENT COUNCIL

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT David Smith
SECRETARY/TREASURER Katrina Cooper

The STUDENT COUNCIL was very active this year. The Homecoming activities, Sock Hop Spectacular, Prom Dance, and the Sadie Hawkins Dance were a few of the many activities sponsored by the Student Council, either in its entirety or by the separate classes. Made up of five representatives from each class, their officers, and the student body officers the Student Council represented everyone. There were some ups and downs in government during the year but overall many things were accomplished. Mr. Miller sponsored the Student Council.

As the "informers" to the school, the HOMEROOM REPORTERS were a very busy group of students. Their job was to attend Student Council meetings and to pass news to the homerooms. The Homeroom Reporters sold corsages for the Homecoming in October and they sold tickets for various dances.

HOMEROOM REPORTERS

TREBLE CHORUS

The Music Department increased to nearly 500 students enrolled in the various classes. Basic Musicianship was the only academic music class taught. It included the study of various types and styles of music, both vocal and instrumental.

Under the direction of Mrs. Betty Neill Parsons, the 120 voices of the Mixed Chorus and Treble Chorus had the unique privilege of being the only Cumberland County high school to be asked to record for television. With many requests to sing at functions off campus, these groups kept a very colorful calendar all year. In addition to two concerts a year on campus, the choruses provided music at home basketball games and various club functions.

MIXED CHORUS

GUITAR

Guitar, beginning and advanced, was very popular this year. The classes had several soloists in their midst. The soloists and classes played in many programs and concerts. Mr. Alton Hartner was the director of the guitar program.

HANDBELLS

An exciting addition to the choral music department has been a three octave set of Handbells. Seventy First was the only high school in the state to have an accredited course in handbells. This course was directed by Mrs. Betty Neill Parsons.

band-(n) 1. a group of people united for some purpose 2. a group of musicians playing together

Both of these definitions could easily describe the 1976 Seventy-First Falcon Marching Band. These, along with the mainstays of this year's band

Putting in a staggering 15,647 hours of practice this summer (not counting camps) after school, the 91 band members and attach units really worked this year. It paid off, not only in the trophies they brought home, but in that inner feeling of pride and satisfaction each member will carry inside for a long time

Outstanding members were seniors
Chuck Jordan, saxophone and clarinet,

David Carriger — drums, Lisa McNew, a Junior, was also outstanding on the clarinet. They were led by senior drum major ette Corrimme Lockwood. The attach units were led by Marianne Stuart — Majorettes, Jennifer Watts — Rifle Squad, and Carmen Brosius, Pat Zalachek, and Tammy Edge — Flag Corps.

This was their second year under the direction of Mr. Terry Barnhardt. His motivation of the band was the only thing that kept them going at times. He put in as many hours as the band itself — writing the show, arranging countless scores of music, at camps, at practice, and on the road. He was assisted by Mr. Alton Hartness

The Stage Band was directed by Mr. Terry Barnhardt. They performed at home basketball games. The music ranged from Duke Ellington to Stevie Wonder.

MU ALPHA THETA

MU ALPHA THETA, better known as the Math Club, consisted of juniors and seniors maintaining a B or better average in math. This included one year of Algebra I, one year of Geometry, and a half a year of Algebra II. At this year's monthly meeting, a guest speaker provided information on the math related careers. Mu Alpha Theta is recognized on the junior college level.

The National Honor Society was sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals, represented by Mr. Kenneth Edge at Seventy-First High School. Mrs. Patricia Johnson, Mrs. Mary Jo Wilson, and Mrs. Jan Peters were the advisors.

The purpose of the National Honor Society was to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership, and encourage character development within the school.

Service projects were undertaken by the National Honor Society when the need arose and when a request was made for the Society to act. For the last six years the Society has taken an active part in Senior Awards Day. For several years the Society has helped escort parents during Parent-Teacher Conference Days.

Officers for the 1975-1976 school year are: PRESIDENT, Everette Montgomery; VICE-PRESIDENT, Mark Bennett; SECRETARY, Diane Mazo; TREASURER, Linda Prior; and PARLIAMENTARIAN, Phillip Kegelmeyer.

SCIENCE CLUB

The Seventy-First High School SCIENCE CLUB consisted of members who possessed a true interest in science and wished to pursue the higher levels of science. Criteria for membership in the Science Club included good standing within the school and the presentation of a science project. Although it was not the most active club in school, it had and accomplished a desirable purpose: to educate further its members on the aspects of careers, new scientific findings, and the importance of science in our world to day on a social basis.

The Spanish Club was very busy this year. There were several highlights such as the installation of officers, learning Spanish dances and attending the language school at Fort Bragg. The club also enjoyed a scrumptious meal at Pedro's.

SPANISH INTERNS

Once a week a group of Spanish III and IV students, known as Spanish Interns, plan lessons for grades K-6. These lessons include everything from actually trying to teach young children Spanish, to sponsoring Christmas parties with the traditional pinatas and goodies.

Internships began as a nine weeks project, but was so successful and enjoyable for both interns and students that they decided to continue the program throughout the year.

David Paul – President

Mike Gaziano – 1st Vice president

Denise Wetz – Vice-President

Andrea Campbell – Secretary-Treasurer

Michele Lewis – Sergeant at Arms

Mark Windley – Publicity Officer

3. The Rifle Drill Team performed at football and basketball games and parades. The team was one of the few drill teams to perform at meets and to compete as a silent command drill team. The commander of the team was Cadet Captain Glenn Mobley

4. Fancy Mate-Regulation Drill Team

Commander: C/MSgt. John Klemmer. The Drill Team was two drill teams combined in one. The team placed third in competition at Smithfield Selma

5. The ROTC Fancy Drill Team commanded by C/1st Lt. Connie Felder, is the liveliest and most rhythmic of all the drill teams. They performed with a precision and a style which can only be phrased "fancy". They have entertained audiences during competition, parades and school functions. During this year the drill team performed at the Cape Fear Fair and Fayetteville State University

At Seventy-First many activities go on constantly with the help of the Falcon. The Falcon was able to keep up with the activities and a lot of the major issues of the time.

The Falcon this year had a staff of nineteen dedicated and talented writers, headed by their chief editor Janet Gibson. The staff was able to produce one of the finest papers in the area.

The Falcon staff has come a long way from the mimeograph copies that they were forced to put out in the beginning of the 1975-76 school year.

BUS DRIVERS

The bus drivers were fortunate students who successfully passed a certified bus driver's examination and road test. These were the students who anxiously awaited a 6 00 alarm to board their buses in 30 degree weather so that they may greet their loving passengers... fact or fiction?

Although the job was seldom this glamorous there was a great degree of prestige that came with earning a bus driver's license. The proof was clearly visible when the intercom came on and Mr. Warner announced the arrival of new bus licenses or you happened to overhear a hearty conversation about who had the best looking bus.

At the end of every month there was "The Driver of the Month" award and the year ended with the Annual Bus Drivers Banquet where certificates of merit and trophies were awarded.

sports

In 1976, Seventy-First and Reid Ross were replaced as the District III representatives by Pine Forest and Wilmington Hoggard, while the Falcons finished the season with a depressing five and five record.

After defeating Jacksonville and E. E. Smith, Falcon quarterback, Harry Sydney was put out of action for five games with a knee injury.

Having relied heavily upon the passing game, the Falcons were forced to take time to develop an effective running attack. Needing a running game and a quarterback, the Falcons looked to Craig Cortez and JoJo Graham, who did an excellent job of filling in. Other bright spots on the offense were tackles Dale Tony and Dean Leavitt, who were also named to the All Conference football team.

Although the offense was struggling, the defense was stronger than any other in Seventy-First history. The Falcon defense kept games so close that the Falcons lost three games by a total of only four points and were able to win every game statistically.

Randall Johnson, George Washington, who were named to the All Conference team, and Seniors Ricky O'Briant, Roberto Conales, Carl Combs, Standwick Williams, Boris Garrett, Darrol Wardlaw, Jerome Ballew, Luther Wright, and Warren Bernard helped to keep the defense in the best possible shape.

Baby Falcons our very own

One of the most unappreciated athletes is the Junior Varsity player. Fighting hard for his position on the team, he faced dreaded cuts. He put in long hours of practice, training for the game, sacrificing his spare time for the benefit of the team. Experiencing the excitement of victory and the pain of defeat, he found the feeling of teamship to far outweigh the work and sacrifice.

He struggled through cuts, practice, and training, just as his counterpart — the varsity player did. Why then did not crowds flock to the games in which he played? Why should he deserve this dilemma? Because, by some mishap of fate, he was a sophomore. Unappreciated, but not unloved.

4-A Champions

The SFH girls' track team captured the Division III track championship, the Mid-South 4A County Championship, and became the Division III representative to the NCHSAA eastern sectional of the state track and field Championship.

Outstanding performances by the entire team was the key to the Lady Falcon's success. The Lady Falcons set many new records, both in track and field events.

Outstanding members were: Most Valuable: Coleen Crespo; All Around: Beverly Young, Most Valuable in Field Event: Kiki Powel; Student-Athlete Award: Theresa Hales.

Stayce Harris, Betty Dumas, and Barbara Smith all set new school records along with the all-conference distance runner, Linda Nehis.

"The entire team performed as a team unit; the girls demonstrated this as the goal we achieved this past season. I am truly proud of each girl, not only as an athlete, but as a person — we had that Falcon Spirit!"

75-76 TRACK TEAM— A WINNER

Highjumper Dean Leavitt, easily clears the bar.

The boys' track team placed high in the 1975-76 conference. Seventy-First lost only twice, both times to Terry Sanford. The Falcons defeated all of the other high schools in this area.

The 1975-76 season was the last for Coach Whitley, James Coleman, Reggie Fairley, Dustin Gunn, Mark Rabdua, and Ravon Somlin. Their absence was a great loss, because their experience and talent helped make the team the consistent winner it was.

76 SOFTBALL: DETERMINATION AND WILL TO WIN

The 1976 girls softball team was a team of pure determination. This was a team that had and showed the will to win. The fighting lady falcons had an impressive season, losing only five games out of fifteen. They placed third in the conference.

Carolyn Douglas was voted the Most Valuable Player by her teammates, while Pat McGinnis received the Coaches Award.

The spirit and the determination that the lady Falcons possessed this past year will carry them through the following season with the idea of winning on their minds.

Pat McGinnis fails in her attempt to hit the ball but the Falcons went on to win.

Inexperience and the lack of depth at pitcher proved to be the biggest problem for the Falcons. Many games were decided in the late innings but the Falcons always gave their opponents a fight to the finish.

The 1976 season was marked by several instances and the leadership of Steve Janowski, Mark Polk and Brett Kocaja kept the Falcons close in difficult situations and most notably in a controversial forfeit at Hoggard.

With several players returning and a good crop of jayvee, the situation looks somewhat better in 1977, but the absence of an overpowering pitcher still haunts the Falcons.

SCORES

After an opening shell-shocking defeat to Richmond County, the Baby Falcons bounced back to post a respectable record.

Fine performances by catcher Kenney Kennedy, shortstop Greg Briley, third baseman Bill Hutchinson, and pitcher George Badway have marked these players as prime candidates for the Varsity in 1977.

A double header victory over rival Southview proved to be the highlight of the jayvee season, but the Baby Falcons ended the season losing to Hoke by one run in the extra innings. With this fine group, the Sevier County Baseball program appears to be on its way up.

GOLF TEAM PLACES FOURTH

The Falcon golf team placed fourth in the conference for the 1975-76 season. An added stress was placed upon the team as they were hampered by a variety of courses, while they attempted to uphold their conference standing.

Chris James was hard-pressed by fellow teammate Mike McCulloch for the Most Valuable Player Award.

Coached by Pete Pittman, the team was held by such standouts as Kirk Harrison, Danny Parker, Fred King, and Joe Palmer.

Three Falcons went to the sectionals with a seven handicap. Chris James, Mike McCulloch, both of whom were selected to the All-Conference team, and Ralph Vasquez.

Mike McCulloch demonstrates the practiced swing that earned him a bid for the all-conference team.

GIRLS' TENNIS

Winning all but four matches the entire tennis season, our girls' tennis team placed third in the conference. Matches lost were to John T. Hoggard and Terry Sanford, who placed first and second.

Carmen Greene, with an impressive undefeated season (16-0), was voted Most Valuable Player for both the 1976 tennis season and the conference match. She was a sectional winner and placed as a runner-up in the state match.

A second award, for the Most Improved for the season, was presented to Janice Coomer.

The boys' tennis team practices all year round to sharpen their serves and backhands and found it rewarding as they ended the year in a respectable third in the conference.

Coach Dwight Miller said that a person can't be a good tennis player if he only practices during the season.

Dominating the courts with a smashing serve and powerful backhand were Mike Edwards and Robert Kostszycki, who combined to capture the Sectional Doubles Championship held in Southern Pines. Achieving the honor for the first time ever in the history of Seventy-First, Mike and Robert topped a list of 32 schools.

Representing the Falcons on the court in the state tournament was Robert Kostszycki and, although he failed to win, he closed out the Falcon season with a sparkle.

The lonely trail of the harrier is endured by a Falcon

The 1976-77 Cross Country led by Coach Vernon Greene generally consisted of young inexperienced runners that displayed more enthusiasm than evident in the past few seasons

Five hundred mile, 1000 mile, and 1500 mile clubs were formed. Most runners qualified for one of these clubs

Nearly forty people showed early interest in the team; however, the tough training pace including ten mile runs discouraged most of them. In addition, injuries helped reduce the team to seven for the final meet of the season, a win over Hoke County High School.

The Coach's Trophy was awarded to sophomore George Heib, who has great potential, while the Most Valuable Runner Trophy was presented to Thomas Wright, who led the team in first place finishes in the 5-5 season

GIRLS' "POWER" VOLLEYBALL

The second year of power volleyball at 71st turned out to be a disappointing one for Ms. Talliani and the varsity lady Falcons. The Varsity squad had a seasonal record of 4-12. Most teams may have given up with this record but the varsity girls kept going to the end. The season high scorers, all seniors, were Nelly Varvao — 76 points, Shelia Buskey — 74 points and Carolyn Douglas — 71 points. The Most Valuable Player Award was given to Shelia Buskey.

Unlike the Varsity, the J.V. girls finished with a 7-9 record. This was the first year of power volleyball for the majority of the team and Ms. Talliani was satisfied with her J.V.'s. Alina Vallecillo was the team's high scorer with 60 points and also received the Most Valuable Player Award. The other high scorers were Sheri Clark and Patty Garland both with 48 points and Pat McGinnis with 45 points.

Ms. Talliani is hoping that more girls will be interested and come out for the sport next year.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

The 1976-77 season was a year of records for the Varsity Basketball Team. Coach Falcon topping West Brunswick, breaking their home winning streak which spanned five years and Harry Sydney scoring a season high of forty points against West Brunswick.

Although the Falcons started the season slowly, losing three out of their first four games, they improved their record to ten-six (with two games left in the regular season).

The Falcons looked forward to the conference play-off in hope of placing better than their position of fifth in the annual Christmas Tournament.

With starters Harry Sydney, Ocalas Randolph, David Smith, and Greg Mc Neil all graduating, the upcoming Jay Vees will have big shoes to fill.

Although the Falcon Varsity have not had as great a season as former Varsity Teams, they have posted a satisfactory season and will be remembered in years to come.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Winning five out of their first six games the Girls' Basketball Team opened with an impressive start.

Coaching our Lady Falcons for his first season this year, Dwight Miller was satisfied with the performance of his squad.

Most of the 1976-77 team returned from last year's team. This included the team's leading scorer, Annette Mitchell.

The Lady Falcons had a record of eight-eight (with two games remaining to be played) which the Lady Falcons hoped to improve and move up in the conference standing.

After all the long, hard days of trying out for the Falcon Jayvee team, the eighteen selected players, consisting of fourteen sophomores and four juniors, prepared for the challenging season ahead under the leadership of Coach Webster Connor.

The jayvees were expected to do well during the season and went above and beyond their anticipated strength.

With the help of such outstanding players as Lee Harvey, Monfred Bowden, and Fred Thompson, the jayvees managed to post a 16-3 record (with only one game remaining in the season.)

All of the fine young men of the Jayvees have combined to form a great team and will be counted upon to join with the remaining members of the Falcon Varsity next year.

 THE WINNER

Finishing third in the conference with a 6-2 record the wrestling team, coached by Mr. Ernie Freeman, had a spectacular season.

Losing two out of their final four games by only seven points, the first against Cape Fear 19-24 and the second 20-22, against Reid Ross.

Tom VanMeter, who wrestled in the 158 weight class, remained undefeated during the regular conference matches. Pinning seven out of his eight opponents and winning the final match by a 12-4 decision, he has been a prime example of what the 1976-77 wrestling team was.

Because a great percentage of the starters are leaving Seventy First, the team will have to be rebuilt by Coach Freeman next year. However, the remaining members will make this task a little easier.

The referee watches closely as this Falcon makes his attempt to pin his opponent.

Anticipation. The waiting for the judges decision at gymnastics try-outs made knees quiver. Miss Anderson and Miss Taliani, gymnastics teachers, announced the fortunate people who made the team. There were two try-outs for the gymnastics team, one in the spring and one in the summer before the school year began. From the 125 students that tried out, only 50 were chosen.

A halftime show was held during the 71st-Cape Fear basketball game February eight. Vaulting, tumbling and routines on the trampoline were featured.

The gymnastics team attended and participated in a gymnastics meet April 1st and 2nd at Sanderson High School in Raleigh.

Work on floor exercise and various equipment such as the balance beam, uneven parallel bars, vault, mini tramp, and trampoline was concentrated on during the year. Gymnastics was taught by Miss Taliani sixth period and Miss Anderson fifth period.

Warming up

Caught in the act of bending over backwards.

The varsity cheerleaders, under the supervision of Ms. Burke and Ms. Hughes, started practicing early in the summer. To prepare for the busy cheerleading season, the girls went to a four day workshop at Cambell College. They competed against fifty-eight other cheerleading squads and were the only squad to win a blue ribbon (superior) every night. The varsity cheer leaders squad was also one of the five competitors which won a purple ribbon on the last day of the workshop for being the "Super Squad". They put the skills they learned at Campbell College to good use during practice, which often lasted four hours. At the annual Bordeaux Cheerleading Competition, they took third place, winning a trophy and a hundred dollars.

During half time and time-outs the cheerleaders pepped the crowd up with such cheers as "B-Reed Machine" and "Mighty Falcons".

THANK TO CHEERLEADERS' SPIRIT

The cheerleaders yelled for varsity basketball, cross country and wrestling. The chants for wrestling and cross country were similar to those of football and basketball. For basketball as well as for football, the Varsity cheerleader made a run through poster for the two games a week.

The unnoticed activities have included holding a car wash, buying watermelons for both football teams, and decorating the Varsity bus and locker room.

Being a cheerleader this year was quite expensive. A total of one hundred and sixty-five dollars was paid for each Varsity cheerleader uniform. For the most part, the cost was absorbed by the cheerleaders' parents. The school was probably as grateful as the cheerleaders were to the parents.

We're here to turn it out!" shout the JayVee Cheerleaders to urge the Baby Falcons on.

Carmoleta Jackson and Ailene Surles (captain and co-captain) kept the Junior Varsity squad in spirit throughout the Jay Vee football and basketball seasons.

Approximately fifty girls, with various experiences in cheerleading, "tried-out" for the Jay Vee squad. With three days of hard work and practice, each girl had a fair chance to be chosen.

During the summer, the lucky thirteen ordered their selected uniforms and resumed serious practicing.

Thanks to the parents, 125 dollars was spent on the two required uniforms.

The Phillips 66 on McPhearson Church Road was the site of cars, buckets, hoses, water, soap and cheerleaders. More than a hundred dollars was earned by the Jay Vees to purchase supplies for the break-through posters.

At the end of football season, the cheerleaders used their baking skills to throw a party for their team. The players rushed the tables, leaving only crumbs, napkins and crushed cups.

At halftimes the cheerleaders would greet the opposing squad with a spirited hello cheer and later to share a Coke

Through hardships and fun, the Seventy-First Junior Varsity Cheerleaders had a great season.

J.V. CHEERLEADERS

The Jay Vee Cheerleaders cheer on our players at Southview.

Behind every sports team — be it prosperous or not — there is a coach yelling, screaming, cursing, and instructing, pushing his team to its best.

A coach is an individual with several outstanding characteristics. He is known to attend sports events and to sacrifice most of his spare time for training. Coaches have a lot to teach onlookers about sacrifice and dedication. Without this dedication from the coach the team — any team — would be a group of people with only one thing in common: a love of one particular sport.

The coach has the talent to take the individuals of a team and combine their talent to make the team — a team. He works them and bends them and sharpens their skill, until that "same group of people with only one thing in common" have two things in common — the love of the sport and being a member of the same team.

At the end of the season, when all the games are history and the coach knows that the members of the team have given 100 per cent, the coach can look back and feel that all the sacrifices and time well worth it.

This year the election of the Senior class officers and representatives was a boost for women's lib. Six out of eight of the class positions were held by females. This is not to say that the guys were unprecedented. Through a lot of hard work and dedication the officers and reps were able to present the Sockhop dance, the homecoming dance, the senior production, the graduation, and finally the graduation dance. The Senior class was able to cross many bridges that classes before them had not dared. They were able to sponsor activities that triggered a desire to provoke school participation. If it were not for the support of the parents, teachers, and friends many of the activities would not have been possible. A special commendation goes out to Mrs. Smevog for devoting her time and energy to guide the Senior class along the way.

Pro And Con . . .

It was the best of time

Although he conducts himself the same, still going to all the Friday night games, meeting friends at the Pizza Hut and Burger King, there is a new aura surrounding him. He is a Senior now! He has an obligation to be an example to the rest of the student body at SFH.

Being a Senior may be the termination of something started twelve long years ago, but it's also the beginning of a bright new stage in life.

It's the little privileges that distinguish a Senior from the rest of your classmen, shorter classes, a private cafeteria, the Senior Prom, as well as the long awaited final farewell to SFH (the Senior Production). Just the thought of graduation day sends quivers down the spine. Now the time comes when Seniors finally realize, "It's my world, I'm gonna take it!"

Being an athlete is not just a matter of athletic expertise, but also knowing the right plays!

Ronald Clinton perfects his drawing with careful measurements and calculations.

Deeply involved with their work, students complete last minute assignments.

Nancy Groves proves that even school can be a laughing matter, when shared with a friend

Greg Goren after hearing the tardy bell accepts the fact he is late, and leisurely walks to class

Thomas Johnson not only poses for the camera but for Sandy Crawford, as well

And it was the worst of times

Knowing that what he had strived for all this time was finally here some how seemed a bit more glamorous from down below

Dreaming, anticipating, and working for future goals, such as college employment, and marriage, they are all part of being a Senior Busily searching for her books, Nancy Hunter looks up... smile you are on Candid Camera!

A little understanding between two students can make all the difference in one's outlook

Suffering from boredom, Correen Hubbard reverts to the all time favorite... doodling

Ken Lennon wonders what the new year will hold in store for him, as well as the new principal

A Senior is finally able to make major decisions that for the first time will directly affect the rest of his life.

Being a Senior is a frightening experience, for he must choose carefully his path into the world.

Saying "good-bye" to certain friends, promising to keep in touch, but somehow knowing that you never will, is all part of the Senior mystique. Taking on new responsibilities, proving or trying to prove to himself that he is ready for all the new demands and changes. He is being a mature young adult.

Before going out into the cold, a student braces himself in the warmth of the hall.

A student feels he's almost there as his junior year begins. The problems of a sophomore behind him, the worries of a senior looking in the distant future, he's all set to have a ball! He can join all those clubs he's wanted to. He has his driver's license with access to the family car (or his own if he's lucky). He can go to all the games, and can make a lot of dates

. He can get a job and make money. If he's lucky, he can get on the work program. "And look at my schedule, it's a cinch!" he'll say. And the parties. Yeaah, he can hardly wait.

If he's like most juniors, he found that belonging to that club was a lot of work, and besides that, it costs. Along with the money he needed to pay for the gas in the car, the work program was filled, and he couldn't find a job anyway... He found out that "cinch" course wasn't quite as easy as it looked, but his English teacher didn't know that. And did she ever lay on the homework.

CAUGHT IN THE MIDDLE . . .

Though fun, the junior year was the time of life when the only time spent at home was to eat, sleep, and change clothes. This often resulted in clothes piled knee-high, which a junior had to wade through, in order to sleep on his seldom-made bed

Being a junior wasn't all bad though. Continuing to build the academic foundations he began as a sophomore was necessary to further his goals after graduation

Though the confusion and hectic pace of the entire year, the junior year could still be summed up in that one word - fun!!

NEXT YEAR

"Next year, next year," we say
When come to thought
Our plans and projects gay,
Our bright dreams, fought

With brighter hopes, that shone
On that far rim
Of life's horizon line,
Where dreams lie dim

And touched with morning dew
"Next year, next year,"
And while we plan a new
The days grow sure

The year flies by, and lots
We've left behind
The glory and the glow
We hoped to find,

And raised again the clue
We meant to heed
The cherished plan to do
Some cherished deed

"Next year, next year!"
Oh! why not now,
Delaying soul, this year
Keep word and vow?

Oh! why not now and here,
Why not today,
Before another year
Shall run away?

Keep word and faith, or ere
An hour's delay
Make good the promise fair,
TODAY, TODAY!

The Old Year

Which is the old year? 'Tis a book on which we backward fondly look. Not willing, quite, that it should close. For leaves of violet and rose within its heart are thickly strewn, marking love's dawn and golden noon and turned-down pages, look that tell of starless nights and mournful knell of bells that toll through troubled air. The De Profundis of despair the laugh, the tear, the shine, the shade. All 'twixt the covers gently laid, no leaves uncut, no pages unscanned. Close it and lay it in God's hand.

EXCITEMENT!! That's the first impression one gets when he looks at a sophomore's face. It is lighted up like a Christmas tree. That's how sophomores are on the first day of school. The girls are looking over the guys and the guys are looking over the girls. "WOW! Is he nice looking." That's what sophomore girls are saying about junior and senior guys. The first day of school for sophomores is always something to look forward to. We seem to grow up during our sophomore year. I guess it's that we are in high school and that all the juniors and seniors seem to be so much more mature than we are. So we figure, well if we want to get along with other people in this school we have to be and act mature.

In high school, sophomores seem to think that upperclassmen will pick on them, but really it's not as bad as they think. Everyone knows that sophomores act silly sometimes, but it is because we have not yet grown out of junior high. All we need is a little time, we'll grow up. It is a big change for many of us and we often have to accept certain responsibilities. We often get hassled about being sophomores. So come on juniors and seniors give us sophomores a break. We need love, too.

A sophomore's life was best described as a challenge. As he entered his first year of high school, he had to make many important decisions that would affect him for the rest of his life. The sophomore year was a time of unsurity, a time when a student found he had to stand on his own two feet. With his new responsibilities also came a new found sense of freedom. Each day brought new challenges for him to meet, and he had to keep himself prepared.

Meeting the demands and pressures of everyday made his life a constant struggle. His life was constantly changing about him, and he felt he had to either fight the change or fight himself to accept the change. He often made his life more complicated than needed, as he would find out later, but no harm was done. It was all part of being a sophomore.

Through it all, a sophomore would emerge victorious. Through sleepless nights, all the broken hearts and painful experiences, at the end of the year he found it was worth it. A sophomore's life was not all a challenge and struggle though. As he progresses through the years and looks back at his sophomore year, his memory will fade away and he will remember the good times. The fun was there, with laughter between the tears, and there were times when he wouldn't have traded being a sophomore for anything in the world. And yes, it was worth it.

SCHOOL ADMINISTRATION

Mr. Kenneth Edge
Principal

Mr. Alex Warner
Associate Principal

Mrs. Ann Voltz
Assistant Principal

Our new principal, Mr. Kenneth Edge, returned to Seventy-First after a two year absence as principal of Stedman Junior High. He formally served here as assistant principal and J.V. basketball coach.

Mr. Alex Warner, associate principal, was the director of athletics and handled school transportation.

Planning new courses, collecting lesson plans, supervising budget programs, observing classes, accounting textbooks and preparing bilingual surveys kept Mrs. Ann Voltz busy during the year.

Mr. Thomas Hosterman prepared statistical reports and was in charge of the school building and grounds.

Supervising the free and reduced lunch programs, Mr. Galbreath collected federal cards ordered and dispensed supplies.

All of the staff was responsible for general supervision of the school and for discipline. Teamwork of the staff was the key to its successful year in keeping the school running smoothly.

Mrs. Voltz catches up with her busy schedule.

Many departments at Seventy-First received new members to compensate for the large amount of students this year.

However, the secretarial staff got no additional help, increasing their already heavy work load even more.

Miss Wingate experienced the change in principals more directly than most, she was Mr. Edge's secretary. Mrs. Eberhardt continued to handle the school's finances admirably as she has done for the past several years. Mrs. Saltz held two positions during the year. At first she was guidance secretary. When Mrs. Stout, the library clerk left, Mrs. Saltz assumed the job.

The Air Force Junior ROTC department is headed by (Ret.) Lt. Colonel Joseph R. Ethier, the Aerospace Education Instructor. He is assisted by (Ret.) SMSGT James T. Strickland, the Assistant Aerospace Instructor. The cadet corps is made up of approximately 150 cadets, which is broken up into five flights. Three days per week are devoted to Aerospace Education, taught by Col Ethier. Two days per week are devoted to leadership training and a drill.

Included in the curriculum studied is orientation to U.S.A.F. customs and courtesies, familiarization with aircraft and spacecraft, and how they operate, principles of flight propulsion, navigation, and an analysis of factors and techniques involved in leadership situations.

The unit competes in approximately six drill meets and two parades each year. Cadets also hold a Military Ball, Dining In, and a Squadron Picnic. Part of the curriculum includes at least two field trips per year to a military installation for all cadets. They also sponsor a needy family at Christmas time.

The unit has been awarded the AF JROTC Meritorious Unit Award for the past two years. These were the only years that the unit was eligible for this award.

Music

The Music Department has really grown this year with nearly 500 students enrolled in the various classes. Basic Musicianship is the only academic music class taught this year. This is a study course of various types and styles of music, both vocal and instrumental. Guitar, beginning and advanced has been very popular this year. These classes have several soloists in their midst. The soloists and classes alike play in many programs and concerts. Mr. Alton Hartness is the director of the guitar groups. The Seventy-First Concert Band, under the direction of Mr. Neil Wilson plan two concerts a year for the general public. This band is capable of playing music that most of the better bands play. The program is growing and improving.

The Marching Band starts in July with evening practice in preparation for the fall season. They performed at all the football games and participated in four marching band concerts. The Marching Band's long hours of practice paid off when, at the Wake Forest Contest, the band was rated as one of the three top bands in the state.

Foreign Language

The Foreign Language Department at Seventy-First offers thirteen courses in four foreign languages: French I, II, III, and IV; German I, II, and III; Latin I and II, and Spanish I, II, III, and IV. Mr. Cunningham's classes are the only Latin classes in the Cumberland County school system. Altogether more than 800 students at Seventy-First are taking a foreign language class.

If you ask them why they are taking a foreign language course, most of these students will give one of two reasons: either they have a parent who speaks that language, or they need the course for college entrance. These are the quick answers — and very valid ones, too, however, many of these students and all of their teachers will add that there are other reasons for wanting to know a foreign language.

Travel is one reason. More of the classes of '77, '78, and '79 will go abroad than they may think right now. The world grows smaller all the time. Then there is work. Both for jobs in the United States supplying goods and services to our large number of foreign born residents, and for jobs representing the United States business abroad, there will be an increasing need for employees who speak a second and even a third language.

Because of the exceptionally high enrollment at Seventy-First and because each student is required to attain three English credits in order to graduate, the English department is the largest of all departments in our school. It consists of twenty-one teachers, four of whom are shared with other departments.

The English department offers six courses to the student body. Three of these, English II, III, IV, are required of every student. Advanced Seniors are placed in English V, an advanced college preparatory course. There are, however, advanced placement courses on all three levels. Elective courses offered are Biblical Literature and Journalism.

Chewed pencils, mountains of scratch paper, and good erasers have become battle equipment for math students as they undergo the daily task of homework required by most teachers. While students in advanced classes struggle over vectors, trigonometric functions, and derivatives, Geometry students rely upon reasoning as the logical key to solve formal and indirect proofs. General mathematics covered such topics as insurance, banking and income tax, proving to be useful and practical in business affairs.

Science

T. JoAnn Colvin and John Cheatham watch the results of their science experiment

The study of science is a major part of a student's cultural growth. In the science classroom one learns the methods and spirit of scientific inquiry, to develop openmindedness, and to become more skillful in observing and reasoning. Training in science helps one to think and act more scientifically in everyday life.

In order for the science department to meet its objectives it is divided into the following areas:

General Biology is designed to promote a better understanding of the operation of biological systems through acquaintance with accepted biological concepts and principles.

Advanced Biology goes a step further in teaching the living process and behavior of living things. Studies are mainly in cell physiology, biochemistry, genetics, microbiology, and anatomy and physiology.

Physics is the study of energy and matter and the changes they undergo. The course encompasses solid and fluid mechanics, measurements in the metric system, heat and thermal energy waves, sound, light, electricity, and nuclear energy. Laboratory experiments verify student problem solving.

Chemistry attempts to develop skills in manipulating laboratory equipment and understanding scientific methods in safety practices. It is taught on a college preparatory basis. Advanced chemistry is also taught.

Senior Science is concerned with the physical, ecological, and biological aspects of our environment and population in the areas that are of interest to the student academically and personally.

History Department

The history classes this year proved to be very successful in capturing students' interest

A special unit on Japan was presented in Geography classes. It consisted of special testing unit from Raleigh, and Seventy-First was one of the two schools in this area that was involved. Classes in geography increased to four full classes this year.

In November, seven Social Studies classes were involved in a mock political convention. Students enjoyed the sessions and seemed to gain information on how a Presidential nominee is selected.

This event was presented in the local Fayetteville paper.

Physical Ed.

The Physical Education program here at Seventy First is a well rounded one. It offers a wide variety of Activities which include both team and individual sports. Some of these activities are: flag football, soccer, basketball, volleyball, softball, track and field, tennis, tumbling, dance, gymnastics, badminton, horseshoes, and golf.

The purpose of the Physical Education Department is to help develop boys and girls and get them interested in some activity that will carry over with them later on in life. The staff feels that the P.E. Department also develops character and sportsmanship. P.E. helps one to recognize the importance of working as a team and getting along with other people.

The department is very proud of the progress that the Physical Education Program is making. Developing a strong body and a desire to participate in a sportsmanship way is important to our society.

Business

The Business Department is career education, in that it is designed to develop students in an occupational field through skill development, specialized instruction, and practical work experience. The courses are aimed to develop those work habits, attitudes, and traits which are acceptable in the business world.

During the 1976-77 school year, there were approximately 950 students enrolled in the Business Department under the instruction of nine persons.

Those courses in the department which offers one unit of credit are Accounting I, II, Typing I, II, and for the first time, Marketing and Consumer Math.

Cooperative Office Occupations is a two-semester, three-unit course offered to seniors which is designed to incorporate on-the-job work experience with classroom instruction.

Home Ec.

The Home Economics Department consists of four faculty members. Courses are offered in home economics, family life, semester courses in foods and nutrition, child care and development, housing and home furnishings, clothing and textiles, interpersonal relationships and consumer education.

Activities this year have been many. Food for the NCAE teachers meeting was prepared and sold from the concession stand. Teachers and Administration have been invited as guests to meals with the advanced food classes. Weddings were discussed, planned and an actual mock wedding occurred in the interpersonal relationship classes. The reception for the wedding was catered by the foods classes.

Teachers led our way

Each year thirty or more students enter a class to increase their knowledge but learning is only a part of it. A basic essential that is required for a student to learn or want to learn is a good teacher. A good teacher is one who is dedicated to his or her profession and is determined to have her students increase their learning skills so that they will be prepared to face any situation intelligently and with an open mind.

These teachers show that they care, by attending extra-curricular activities — pep rallies, dances, concerts, and games. Looking around at these activities students may not see 50 teachers but there are always SOME teachers there.

This year the 1976-77 Hexagon staff honors the teachers who have taught at Seventy-First for at least ten years.

With the approaching of spring, classes showed a bit of amusement and a little daydreaming.

The Tony Richardson's Band provided a variety of tunes at the Homecoming Dance.

Mr. Bonhardt makes students feel that he is really interested in what they are doing.

Mrs. Bount is one of the many dedicated teachers at Seventy-First. A special program called Resource is her specialty.

Faculty Honored For

For 30 years, Mr. McKethan has taught agriculture, horticulture, science, and math at Seventy-First. Mr. McKethan feels that Seventy-First is the very best. He also sponsors FFA and HERO.

2. Born in Hyde County in N. C., Ms. Jeannie Montgomery has baked the breads and fixed the deserts for Seventy-First for the past 21 years. Ms. Montgomery feels that the students show very good manners as they come through the lunch lines. She plans to make baking in the school cafeteria her life career.

3. Ms. Brown has been at Seventy-First for the past 10 years. During this time, she has taught biology, home ec. I and II, boy's home ec., advanced foods, child care, and development.

4. Ms. Fisher has taught U. S. history for the past 10 years here at Seventy-First. She was born in Bladen County, N. C. To her, Seventy-First is a very large and interesting school. The one change that Ms. Fisher would like to see is for there to be enough classrooms so that all huts can be eliminated. Ms. Fisher does not know how long she plans to teach.

5. Born in Greensboro, N. C., and graduating from the University of Greensboro, Ms. Howard has taught at Seventy-First for 29 years. During this time she has taught Shorthand I and II, and office practice. Unfortunately, Ms. Howard only plans to teach one more year.

Their Years Of Service

1. Ms. Bunce has been with Seventy-First for the past 21 years. Starting off as a cook over at Seventy-First Elementary, she came to Seventy-First High when it moved across the highway to this new location. Over the years she feels that Seventy-First has made many improvements.

2. Mr. Perkins has been with us at Seventy First for the past 12 years. During this time he has taught art classes. He has done the decorations for the Prom for the last two years.

3. Ms. Voltz has taught English and has been as assistant principal at Seventy First for 10 years. Ms. Voltz designed the English V program, and was the first to teach this course. During the past three years Ms. Voltz has been an assistant principal. Ms. Voltz has a Master's Degree in administration and supervision.

4. Born in Raeford, N. C., Ms. Skipper has taught typing I and II, business math, and basic business for the past 16 years at Seventy-First. Ms. Skipper feels that Seventy-First has changed a lot since she first started teaching here, but all the changes have been for the best. She is a sponsor of FBLA. Ms. Skipper doesn't plan to retire until the age of sixty-five.

We Salute You!

1. For the past 26 years most history students have had the pleasure of Mr. Miller as their teacher. The few things that Mr. Miller would like to see different about Seventy-First are more emphasis on government and reading
2. Born in Sampson County in Newton Grove, N. C., Ms. Clark has been with Seventy-First for 13 years. She has taught some science and the introduction to vocation course. Ms. Clark sponsors FHA and HERO
3. From Raeford, N. C., Mr. McLaughlin has been a custodian at Seventy-First for the past 15 years. Mr. McLaughlin plans to retire before the age of sixty-five.
4. Ms. C. Clark has been a custodian at Seventy-First for the past 11 years. She states she is 55 years old and single
5. Ms. Kosman has been with Seventy-First for 12 years. She has taught world cultures and U.S. history. Ms. Kosman has been ill part of the school year

Unnoticed, but not unloved

At Seventy-First High School, someone had to cook lunch and breakfast for the 2300 student body and over 100 teachers. Someone had to make sure that the food was hot and well balanced. This was done by the cafeteria ladies. We really appreciate all of this

Who swept the halls after 3 00, cleaned those dirty bathrooms, swept the classrooms, waxed the floors, and a lot of other odds and ends? This was done by the custodian staff. They did an extremely good job this year. Thank-You

The Sheriff, He is one that usually goes unnoticed, even though his presence is usually felt. He attends all of the football, basketball, and wrestling matches. He keeps peace on the inside, and directs traffic on the outside.

The Sheriff's department kept a careful watch at the 50's Day Sock Hop, the Homecoming Dance, the Sweetheart Dance, and the Prom.

Students see him as the buses roll in and out of the school grounds. The Sheriff, just in case he is needed, is there.

A Backward Glance . . .

As the year drew to an end, we began to think of the changes in this school year. We remember how the year started with a new principal who brought new philosophes to the administration. He opened the four smoking patios which were always in use. The quiet school year can be attributed to his successful guidance.

Many of the changes occurring at Seventy-First this past year have been minor ones, but there have been many drastic changes—changes which have not been noticed before but have stood out this year. This year the students of Seventy-First showed more interest in their school than in the previous years. There have been many functions such as the Sweetheart Dance and the Sock Hop which are attributed to the students themselves for arranging these activities and making them a success. But the next school year will have even a more drastic change. Many of the students will be going to Westover Senior High School. Some of our best teachers will leave with them. For remaining students and teachers there will be a sigh of relief to the thought of less congested halls and fewer huts. But to many of us, there will be an empty feeling knowing that many of our close friends will no longer be here to gossip with or loiter in the halls before school. The next school year will not be the same and as one student put it, "I like it crowded," but it is a change we have to face.

closing

The spring has been one of transition seniors looking forward to bright futures and underclassmen groaning because they either had to change schools or stay at Seventy-First. The usual spring slumps swept the campus in epidemic proportions as students nodded heads in class or pleaded with teachers to take them out doors.

Daydreams of the summer, "forgotten" assignments, wishing the school days to close, procrastinating writing term papers: all were typical signs of spring

Daydreams

The senior show captured the attention of some as the class went into long hours of production for "Bye Bye Birdie." Likewise, the Spotlight Players responded with "South Pacific", a musical presented with the assistance of the music, art, and carpentry classes. Cap and gown arrivals, senior pictures, and awards day were anticipated by many seniors. All were prepared to face the hectic weeks before them as they nervously waited for the night of graduation.

A Look To A New And Brighter Future

No, there won't be another year like this — the triumphs, the failures. But the essence of our spirit will remain — that Seventy-First spirit which is carried on through each graduating class and will probably remain with us as we look to a new and brighter future

JUNE

Month of certainty
and hard work.

MOTTO: A liar tells no truth.

5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30

As the school year comes to a close, students think about a lot of things. We think of the past, the present, and of the future.

They think of all the fun times we had with our friends at the games. We remember our prom night, or perhaps we think of his first prom to come next year.

We look back over all our new friends we have made this year and are usually very happy we have made them. But, we don't forget the old friends, the ones that have been with us since the beginning of high school days.

We also think of the day we get out of school for the summer. Then we think of that beautiful summer vacation to come. And then, it's all over, June 10th is here. That beautiful summer is here!

In Memoriam

Mike Mayers

January 22, 1960 — October 27, 1976

There are 2,300 students attending Seventy-First High School. A person from the outside would say, "A missing face would go unnoticed."

One day at Seventy-First a student did not show up and never would again. The special thing about this was that this missing face WAS NOTICED. Someone cared, and wanted to know, "what happened to that one face?"

Mike Mayers, a Junior at Seventy-First, was that missing face. He died on October 27, 1976 in a car accident.

We, the students at Seventy-First, would like for the family to know that WE CARE. We missed Mike. He may have been just another face, but we WILL MISS Mike Mayers.

In Recognition of The HEXAGON Staff — a team who sacrifices and serves

The 1976-77 Hexagon Staff's purpose is to try to preserve for you the highlights of your school days so that in years to come you can look back and relive those memorable moments.

Publishing a yearbook sounds like a lot of work. Well, it is. Finding the perfect picture, writing interesting and informative copy, selling ads, sponsoring movies to raise funds, staying after school and even working many Saturday and Sunday afternoons so that deadlines can be met. That is just a glimpse of the work involved.

The Hexagon Staff is comprised of hardworking and dependable students who seek no special favors, popularity, prestige, or anything like that. They serve and sacrifice so that a school year can be recorded for you in a yearbook that you will be proud to own and proud to show to others.

A note From the Editor

Each time that I sat down to write the Editor's Note of the annual, I wanted to forget all about the hard times, the long hours after school, the weekends filled with work, the headaches, flashing tempers, and of course the tears.

This year's annual staff was a hard working team. Publishing a yearbook that reflects the school year is a challenge in itself. Many nights, Seventy-First would be dead and quiet with the exception of room 24, where the Hexagon staff, under the supervision of Mrs. Jan Shaffer, worked late hours. It was never unusual for a staff worker to leave home at 7:00 in the morning for school and return home at 7:00 that night.

On weekends, the parents of the staff would permit us to use their homes for up to ten hours a day for workshops and provided us with plenty of refreshments. I would like to thank each parent for being so understanding about all the odd hours your child had to keep.

I would like to thank Mrs. Skipper for permitting her student to type for us. A great thanks to the photographers that gave that extra effort when I pushed them so hard, Robert Damborgs and Martin Langevin in particular. There are so many to name that may have done something little, but so very important, I would like to thank you also.

There is one person that deserves a very special thank you, Mrs. Jan Shaffer. More than once, she went beyond the call of duty when we were ready to quit, she pushed us right along. Spending countless hours after school, Mrs. Shaffer cropped pictures, designed layouts, wrote copy, provided transportation for those who needed it, smoothed a quarrel between two staff members in the corner, and even dried a few tears. She would leave after school to buy film, drop off pictures to be developed, and to pick up pictures already developed. Many afternoons when we had worked past dinner hour, she would go to pick up snacks to keep us going. Thank you so very much, Mrs. Shaffer.

Some things cannot be forgotten because they were just as important as all the good that came with it, such as a warm feeling inside from meeting a deadline, or completing a first spread, and a lot of other little, but very important, things.

This is the way I think that everyone should feel about this past school year. You had a lot of hard times, you felt your teacher didn't like you, too much homework, and maybe that subject was just too hard for you. But stop for a moment and just think back over this past year. Maybe you thought that one teacher didn't like you because you were looking at the situation with one eye. You say you always had too much homework? Well honestly answer this: did you really use that study hall for the right reason? Or did you wait until the last minute to do your homework, and had it all piled up? You said that subject was just too hard? Did you honestly go into that class with a positive attitude, really wanting to try, or did you go into class and sleep or maybe even talk the whole period away?

This is the way life is going to be the way you make it. Everything is not going to fall into your lap from the sky. Maybe no one will be there to give you that needed push, because just maybe they are reaching for the same star.

One needs to think about this as he goes into the world: "Is life going to be the way I want it to be? Am I willing to put forth that extra effort to achieve my goal? I am!"

Is a very crazy and sweet dude.
Whom I admire a lot but only one thing about you, try to be stronger with you. just (smile).
Stay Sweet and you will make it in life. I will always remember you

Jessie Jackson

Mel,
There are a lot of things I could say to you but I will only say some of them. I'm glad I got to know you this year, even if you did put me through some changes. You still have a special place with me, even if things are not the same way for you. I think you are a real sweet person and a great basketball player I'm not going to fill up your whole page, even though I can. I wouldn't want to upset you. I hope you won't forget about me completely (I hope you can read my writing) because I'm not going to forget you keep in touch and remember I'm still waiting ☺ Mel, now that I'm starting over again I really decided I better not say some things I was going to say today. Although we have had our ups & downs I hope we can be very close friends. I'm glad you be going to that next year so I can see you some times. I know I don't get to see you over the summer because you stay at your house (the aym' 04 hrs. a day, maybe you'll be a pro someday. I hope so. Mel I know this handwriting is sloppy but what can I do? Even though I know you miss me more & more I hope we can still see each other. When you feel like I'm lonesome I'm still here for ya!

Love you!
Bibi

 I have a very sweet person who is just what I need for my little garden and for my little family. I will not part with her for anything but a very high price.

(Faint handwritten notes)

Handwritten text, likely a letter or journal entry, written in cursive script. The text is extremely faded and illegible due to the quality of the scan. It appears to be a continuous paragraph of writing.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a review of the literature on the subject. It is found that there is a general agreement that the theory of the firm is a central part of microeconomic theory. However, there is a lack of consensus on the exact content of the theory. Some authors emphasize the importance of the firm's internal structure, while others focus on the firm's external environment.

In this paper, we will focus on the internal structure of the firm. We will first discuss the firm's production function, which relates the firm's inputs to its output. This function is assumed to be concave and increasing in the inputs. Next, we will discuss the firm's cost function, which relates the firm's total cost to its output. This function is assumed to be convex and increasing in the output. Finally, we will discuss the firm's profit function, which relates the firm's profit to its output. This function is assumed to be concave and increasing in the output.

The firm's production function is given by:

$$Q = f(K, L)$$

where Q is the firm's output, K is the firm's capital input, and L is the firm's labor input. The firm's cost function is given by:

$$C = c(Q)$$

where C is the firm's total cost and $c(Q)$ is the firm's cost per unit of output. The firm's profit function is given by:

$$\pi = p(Q)Q - C$$

where π is the firm's profit, $p(Q)$ is the firm's price per unit of output, and C is the firm's total cost.

The firm's profit function can be written as a function of the firm's output alone:

$$\pi = \pi(Q)$$

where $\pi(Q) = p(Q)Q - c(Q)Q$. The firm's profit function is concave and increasing in the output.
